

ANDY TEAR

Andy first became involved in theatre in his teens at the Gordon Craig Youth Theatre. He went on to train at Bretton Hall (University of Leeds) and the University of Hertfordshire and graduated with a B.A. (Hons) in Performing Arts. He is an experienced actor, having performed in numerous theatre productions, as well as some TV and film and a number of voiceovers. His experience has lead him into education and the role of a facilitator in schools, colleges and the corporate setting.

He has taught drama, communication skills and percussion for many years, in Singapore since 1999. He has run courses and workshops in acting, voice, presentation skills, mime, improvisation, mask, physical theatre, devising and contemporary theatre practice in institutions such as Nanyang Academy of Fine Arts and LaSalle College of the Arts. He has been involved in various corporate training workshops based on cross-cultural communication, negotiation and team building.

He also has a Trinity Guildhall certificate in Speaking Skills and has completed the Trinity Guildhall LTCL Teaching Diploma.
